Exaggerated Amounts Charged by McCumber—Taxes to Be Increased.

by DAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette. Washington—Congress is determined to enact a bonus bill. The situation is truly alarming for no comprehensive plan has yet been offered by anybody whereby the funds can be raised without adding to the cost of living and the already numerous burdens under which American business is struggling.

Senator McCumber, chairman of the finance committee, favors a sales tax for the first year and expects the bonus to be financed during the second year out of the proceeds of the payments of interest by the allies on the war debts. Chairman of the house ways and means committee has more or less the same idea.

Pickford Divorce Up Again

Carson City.—Oral arguments on a motion by Attorney General Bowler to have the divorce of Pickford from Owen E. Moore dissolved as illegal, were made here Monday before the state supreme court by Fowler and by Miss Pickford's attorney, Gavin McNab of San Francisco. The case has been submitted by both sides and a decision by the court is the next and final step in the case.

Powder attacked the divorce which was granted by Judge Frank J. Langan in the district court at Minden, N. Mex., in the interest of the state of Nevada, on the ground that Moore and Miss Pickford were guilty of adultery and collusion and that Judge Langan had no jurisdiction since the parties were bona fide residents of Los Angeles. He declared the courts of many states held the state to be a third party in divorce.

McNab replied that the attorney general could not have appeared in the divorce trial on the side of either plaintiff or defendant, nor could he act as an intervener and that the district court's judgment was irrevocably final since neither party to the divorce had ever appeared.

Change of Venue in Murder Case

Madison, Wis.—Preliminary hearing in the trial of Hartwell Farwell, Vienna, Wis., farmer, charged with the murder in the first degree following his confession to the killing of Philip Housen, of Windsor, Wis., will be waived and a change of venue asked, F. M. Wylie, Farwell's attorney, announced Monday. He requested that the trial be held before A. C. Hennemann, judge of the superior court, who now has jurisdiction in the case is to be filed with request that the trial be held before Judge E. H. Stevens, in Dane county circuit court.

The change of venue is asked because of the fact that Judge Hennemann had knowledge of previous relations between Farwell and Housen. The preliminaries to the trial which will be held Monday afternoon, Farwell, it is said, will be held on the first degree murder charge now against him.

The body of a burning man was found in a burning hay stack near Portage during the second week in January. Farwell later in a written statement confessed to the killing which, he said, was brought on by his decision to attention being paid by Housen to his sister Alice.

Explorer Dies on His Ship Seeking to Find South Pole

Buenos Aires.—More than three weeks elapsed between the death of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, and his announcement to the world made Sunday when the body arrived at Montevideo. The delay, La Nación's Montevideo correspondent telegraphs, was ascribed by the body to the delay in the wireless messages. Sir Ernest died aboard the S. S. Quest on which he was making another Antarctic voyage while anchored off South Georgia Island on Jan. 5. His body was taken to Montevideo on the first leg of the trip home aboard the Norwegian steamship Professor Cruick.

Captain Huxley bore a death certificate made out at South Georgia Island reading:

"I, Alexander Macklin, certify to my best knowledge and belief that the cause of death was stenosis of the arteries of the heart, before death, he had not suffered an infectious or contagious disease."

This certificate was signed by Dr. Macklin as surgeon of the ship. The body arrived at Montevideo in an hermetically sealed zinc shell covered with wood.

Captain Huxley told La Nación's correspondent that the Quest arrived at South Georgia Island with her small covered with wood.

Blockade Paralyzed Transportation and Return to Normal Slow.

[By Associated Press.] Baltimore.—Baltimore and suburbs Monday were slowly digging free of the snow blockade which had paralyzed local transportation facilities for nearly 2 days. The railroads reported virtually normal conditions Sunday and the ice in the bay had broken up to allow a partial resumption of navigation. GEQ. SEEGMILLER DIES FROM SHOCK OF AUTO ACCIDENT

KNOCKED DOWN ON BELLOIT BRIDGE LATE SATURDAY.

WAS WAR VETERAN

Was Poor Commissioner for 18 Years—Funeral Tuesday.

George Seegmiller, 56, former poor commissioner for 18 years in the southern district of Iowa county, a Civil war veteran, died early Sunday morning in the Beloit hospital from injuries and the shock of being run down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Stephen Hamilton on Saturday afternoon. His death comes just after the county board session at which Mr. Seegmiller appeared to defend himself against charges by accidents which he refused to let discontinue or down him. Badly crippled the aged poor commissioner still continuing to advance his work, even though he was relieved of the office last year, until his untimely death.

Run Down by Auto. Mr. Seegmiller was crossing the street on the central bridge and was struck by the automobile driven by Mrs. Hamilton, the wife of a farmer near Beloit. He was struck by the front of the car and thrown to the bridge sidewalk. He was carried to the hospital within a few feet and took the injured man to the hospital where he lived in an unconscious state until the next morning.

While the injuries were painful, including lacerations about the face and body, it was the shock of the accident together with advanced age, that resulted in the death of the former poor commissioner. He was a member of the first company of Michigan sharpshooters and fought for three years with the Union forces. In the bloody battle of Transylvania, he was seriously wounded and had his right arm shot off by a shell. During his time with the army, Seegmiller was with combat units and participated in many of the great battles.

Born in Canada. George Seegmiller was born May 10, 1836, at Ontario, Canada. He came to the United States in 1852 to enlist in the 27th Michigan Infantry regiment. He was a member of the first company of Michigan sharpshooters and fought for three years with the Union forces.

In the bloody battle of Transylvania, he was seriously wounded and had his right arm shot off by a shell. During his time with the army, Seegmiller was with combat units and participated in many of the great battles.

He was married December 27, 1859, to Anna Jones. They came to Beloit from Kansas in 1891. During his residence in Kansas Seegmiller had been a probate judge. Previous to his service to the county as poor commissioner he was for several years a member of the county board.

For 18 years the Beloit men handled the poor cases in the southern district. Some years ago he suffered a severe fall breaking his hip and as a result one leg was shorter than the other.

Notre Dame Men Confess Part in Taylorville Game and Are Disqualified

[By Associated Press.] South Bend, Ind.—Eight Notre Dame football players Monday voluntarily confessed to having played in the Taylorville game, which was held last night during the Thanksgiving holidays.

The confessions and consequent disqualification of the men were said by Coach Rockne to have "just about" ended the Notre Dame basketball and track teams this year and to have "tore up the prospects for next year's football eleven."

The men were not downcast, however, said Mr. Rockne. "We will start right in to build up new teams and if we can't turn out a winning eleven next year, we'll take our feelings as good sportsmen should."

Springfield, Ill.—Officials at the Carlinville-Taylorville football game which resulted in disqualification of 8 University of Illinois players, expressed belief that the Guards' coach and John Mohrhardt, Notre Dame football player, were not in Carlinville.

Robert Phelan, Fort Madison, Ia., sub-varsity football player, was also in Carlinville, Adrian, Ia., sub-varsity player.

Two Acc Exonerated. The players exonerated Gus Desch, member of the "American" Olympic team and John Mohrhardt, all-American back, from taking part in the game, saying that neither was in any way implicated in the affair.

The athletes declared they had received no money for taking part in the game in which it is said nearly $100,000 was bet by citizens of the two towns and which recently resulted in disqualification of nine University of Illinois stars for playing on the Taylorville team.

Nation Shocked at Theatre Horror as Fall Details Reach the Public

(By Associated Press.) Washington.—With the search for dead under the wreckage of the Knickerbocker theater suspended Monday, in the belief that all bodies had been recovered, probability that the death toll of 108 would be further augmented centered around a dozen or more persons reported in critical condition at various hospitals.

Assurance that an exhaustive investigation would be made of the disaster, not only with a view to fixing blame but also of determining whether other theaters and public buildings in Washington are unsafe in event of heavy snow such as that which caused the collapse of the building Saturday night, was given Monday by leaders in congress as well as officials of the District of Columbia.

Washington, D. C. (10 a. m.)—With 107 dead and 133 injured, removed from the ruins of the Knickerbocker motion picture theater, early Monday the bodies were still struggling with the heavy wreckage left when the snow-laden roof of the structure collapsed during the showing of a comedy bill Saturday night.

General Bandholtz, commander of the federal troops in the district, in personal charge of the rescue work, said it might be another twenty-four hours before all the bodies could be recovered. He said that the wreckage of twisted steel and concrete which yet remained to be cleared away.

Believe Dead Recovered. It was believed, however, that the section now being explored would yield few additions to the list of dead and injured. Rescuers early Monday had been struggling for hours to release from the part of the wreckage now being over-turned, one man believed to be yet alive, although imprisoned under the mass of nearly 36 hours.

The great weight of the steel beams and concrete which crashed with the rescue of victims painfully slow and difficult.

The capital city was bowed in grief Monday to learn the full extent of the tragedy with the recovery of the bodies.

HONESTY URGED IN INCOME TAX

Federal Collectors Make Plea to $4 at C. C. Lunch-con.

The secret of success of the federal income tax is the honesty of the citizen. This statement was made by E. J. Burlingame, Madison, chief deputy of the internal revenue collector's office for the Wisconsin district, in a talk before $4 men of the Chamber of Commerce Monday. In this manner, he stated the aim of the government is to administer the law the honest citizen may not be able to think of his honesty.

"The moment the public thinks the government is dishonest, the government comes a feeling of rebellion."

Ninety percent of the tax errors are due to ignorance of the law, he said, urging the public to "follow the law."

Million Delinquencies Found
In a drive that has been going on for four months to gather in delinquents in the payment of income taxes, Mr. Burlingame said, $700,000 was found in delinquencies.

Of these, $500,000 in delinquencies were discovered in miscellaneous returns in Wisconsin. The rest, $200,000, was supposed to be verified.

C. J. Elmer, field division chief, Milwaukee, explained the technical details of the 1921 law over at $418, one of which is that every individual whose gross income is $5,000 must file a return.

With respect to incomes of married men of $5,000 and over, the law requires that $400 exemption be taken from each. The other classes of single men and married men remain the same.

With respect to traveling expenses, including meals and lodgings, these are now deductible. Deductions of individuals to municipalities are now exempt. The interest on building and loan membership of $500 and over is now exempt on all pensions.

In the matter of protests and suits, notice is now given of 30 days and an opportunity made the taxpayer for a hearing.

The Guarded Heights

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. George Morton goes to work at the home of Planter, a rich man, when his father loses all his property in a very business. George becomes a horse trainer and as a part of the job acts as groom to Sylvia Planter when she rides. Sylvia is a girl from her horse and thinking her unconscious, George kisses her, calling out that he loves her. She awakes him, but in the place and George then her brother, who goes to his room, but in a faint. He awakes an education goes to Princeton, meets Dally, a tutor, gets a place on the football team and goes to college to win from Planter. He makes many acquaintance. He has determined that Sylvia Planter shall marry him and meets her Secretary, who is a girl named Dally. He continues in the determination. Betty Alston is very kind to him. She is at her home, meets her friend, Sylvia, which is embarrassing.

(Continued from Saturday.) Dally smiled and waited. George left. Lambert and went straight to them. Sylvia could always be depended upon to be gracious to Dally. She planned at George and nodded. Although she continued to talk to Dally, she didn't turn. She detected a slight movement as if to make room for him. It was as if he had been any man of her acquaintance coming in. Then he had been right.

"Josiah said we'd have you," Dally smiled. "Why don't you skate? Anything to get on a horse, what? Pretending to be this weather."

George smiled at Sylvia. "Not with the right horse and companionship."

Any one could see that Dally had already swallowed an antidote for whatever benefit the day's fresh air and exercise had given him. Still in the weak face, across which the drollight played, George read other traits, settled in a sense admirable, more precious than any inheritance son could expect from a washwoman mother and a laboring father. Then what was it Dally had always coveted? What had made him rude to the poor man at Princeton? Something he hadn't had. Money. America, George reflected, could breed people like that. There was more than one way of being a snob. He wondered if Dally would ever submerge his pride enough to come to him for money. He might go to Blodgett, but George wasn't at all sure Blodgett would find it worth while to buy up the young man. Blodgett just once joined them. The white waistcoat encircling his rotund middle was like an advance agent, crying aloud: "The great Josiah is here! Josiah just having a good time!" he belowed.

Mrs. Sinclair, sitting near by, looked up, but her husband snarled indignantly. George watched Sylvia. Blodgett put the question to her. "That was a fine ride, didn't it? I'm always afraid for the first horse I ride, might bend him in the middle."

George couldn't understand why she gave that friendly smile he coveted so much. "I'd give a lot to ride like this young man," Blodgett went on, patting George's back. He preened himself. "Still we can't all be born in the saddle."

The thing was so obvious George laughed outright. Even Sylvia conceded his ugly, unintentional humor. A smile drew at the corners of her mouth. If she could enjoy that she was, indeed, for the moment nearer.

Two servants glided around with trays. Blodgett gulped the contents of his glass and snatched his lips. "That fellow of mine," he boasted, "has his own brand. Not bad."

Sylvia drank hers with Dally. While Betty over there shook her head. Probably it was his unbecoming inheritance that made George dislike glasses in Sylvia's hands. Dally slipped away. "Dividends in the smoking room," Blodgett roared.

Dally's drawing dividers. George thought. The procession for the dining room formed and disbanded. Blodgett had Mrs. Sinclair and Sylvia at either hand. It was natural enough, but George resented the argument, particularly with Dally next to Sylvia on the other side. Betty sat between Dally and Lambert. George was nearly opposite, flanked by fluffy clothes and hair, and straightway each ear was choked with fluffy chatter—the theater, the opera, from the side of sartorial criticism; the east

Dinner Stories

"Was it a home wedding?" inquired the able editor of the Tamulville Torch of Liberty.

"It seemed to be," replied Cap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark., "but it turned out to be sort of a procession wedding. The ceremony began in the home of the bride's parents, as usual, but the groom, a nervous sort of a man, got skinned at the preacher's solemn words. He jumped out of the window and escaped for the tall timber as the crowd filed. The rest of us paraded after him, as it were, and he was finally overtaken, knocked down and married 'neath the bending boughs of a giant oak, so to describe the process."

"He's perfectly quiet," remarked the man to the two girls who were hiring a pony and trap. "Only you must take care to keep the rain off his tail."

"We won't forget," they said. "When they returned he asked them how they had got on."

"Splendidly," they exclaimed. "We had one sharp shower, but we took it in turn to hold the umbrella over the horse's tail, so there was no real danger."

The average movie hero is in pretty bad shape along in the middle of the third reel, and it takes two more reels to get him out. That's why so many photoplays would be more satisfactory if the last two reels were dispensed with. And that's why many discerning movie goers are seen walking out at the end of the third reel. They have seen the hero land just where they want him, and by walking out, leave him there.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

Two weeks ago I was talking about cultivating the eyelashes and gave a formula for a very fattening tonic. I also said that the eyelashes should be clipped back frequently, say half a dozen times over a period of eight months. Meantime this eyelash tonic should be used. Then after eight months the eyelashes might be allowed to grow and the tonic continued as usual. In a year from the time you started training your eyelashes, you will have your reward. The lashes will be thicker, will be longer and in some cases will be a healthier color.

If you do not wish to bother having the eyelash tonic made up use olive oil, or castor oil, or even almond oil. These are all vegetable oils and they are absorbed by the skin, therefore are nourishing.

The olive oil should be of the very best quality, or it will not be so effective. Castor oil will probably darken the shade of the eyelashes a little. Almond oil is the least effective of the three.

Long lashes will make the most uninteresting eye beautiful. The dreamy expression which seems to be so coveted by all the younger generation will be an attribute of the most vacant eye, if it is shadowed by long lashes. This is particularly true if the lashes are dark. An enormous number of girls want something that will make the eyelashes and brows black. If 30 grains of peroxide of manganese is added to the eyelash tonic, it will undoubtedly make the hairs darker. It is perfectly harmless to use, as any chemist will tell you. But I never advise its use because the natural color of the eyelashes is usually the most becoming one. There is a great charm in very light lashes and eyebrows though I know very few girls who are blond will agree with me.

Cutie L.—If you are in good health the fact that you are underweight will not matter at your age. You will make it up as you develop during the next few years.

Ethel.—You can have your hair dyed any color, if you are willing to take a chance on the condition of the hair later on. There are times when the hair will remain healthy in spite of the fact that it being dyed, but this is no argument in favor of dyeing the hair.

Most amateur work of this kind is very poor, leaving the hair without gloss and making the face look very harsh. Grey hair is preferable any time to this and the person will look much younger with grey hair than is becoming, than to have a shade of hair that nature never intended to go with the rest of the coloring.

SUGGESTIONS

To Peel Oranges—Soak in boiling water for five minutes before peeling and the white skin will come off with the rind, which is desirable for salads, etc.

To Clean Aluminum—Mix a little whitening with cold water to form a paste; rub the aluminum well with it and polish with a soft cloth.

Hand Lotion (fine for chapped hands).—Put one-quarter ounce of gum tragacanth one-half quart of soft water until dissolved (about 48 hours), then add two ounces of glycerine, one ounce of witch hazel, one ounce of alcohol and one ounce of perfume.

Windshield Cleaner—One of the best cleaners is a piece of untanned sheepskin six inches square, with short clipped wool. By dampening the wool and rubbing this over the glass, enough oil will remain in an invisible film to prevent rain or frost from adhering to interfere with the driver's vision.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

THE BOOK OF TINKER BOB'S LIFE

"Experience," said Tinker Bob, "I have come again to see you. I am going to the Jungle Land of a far away country and I want you to tell me about the journey so that I will be safe from all harm. I was sorry to leave the Great Forest but I felt the King should go on his journey that he might bring back to the creatures of the woodland the story of another world."

"Well, well, Tinker Bob," said Experience. "I'm glad to see you again in the middle of the world. I have been waiting for you to come."

"My book," cried Tinker Bob, "do let me see it, Experience."

"The only way you can see it is to look down through the window in my house and then you will see but a page at a time," said Experience.

"Well, I must see at least a page or two before I go on my way."

"Who is this fellow you have with you?" asked Experience as he saw Silky, the silky fellow, and his wand. "That is Silky, the simple monkey, that I found in the Southland. He came back to stay with me in the forest. I have decided to take him with me to the Jungle Land for he is such good company."

Presently there appeared a servant at the door of the house of Experience. He called out: "The sun has passed the middle of the world and it is time again to begin writing in the book of life." Then the servant went into the house and closed the door behind him.

"What does that mean," Experience? "Will you have to go to work again without telling me where to go and what to do?"

"No, no," said Experience. "What means that no other can come to see me till tomorrow at high noon?" Experience asked Experience as he saw Silky, the silky fellow, and his wand. "That is Silky, the simple monkey, that I found in the Southland. He came back to stay with me in the forest. I have decided to take him with me to the Jungle Land for he is such good company."
